

Hook a Homophone!

This is a game for two players. You will need:

- A copy of the fishing game board.
- One set of homophone cards. Cut these out, shuffle them up and place them in a pile, face down on the table.
- One coloured pencil (or pen) each.

How to play

1. The youngest player goes first. Their opponent should pick a card and read the word and example sentence to the player.
2. The player should now try to find the correct version of that homophone on the game board.
 - If they choose the correct spelling, they can colour that word using their coloured pencil.
 - If they choose the wrong spelling of the word, the other player colours it using their pencil.
3. Next, swap roles so the other player can try to find the correct spelling of the homophone on a new card.
4. Continue playing in this way, taking turns until every word is coloured.
5. The winner is the player with the most coloured words at the end of the game.

In the event of a tie, the winner is the first person to think of a new homophone that is not shown on the game board.
